

Impact of the Red Scare “America’s most dramatic era”

By: Zyhannah Sandoval and Judith Ticas

The Red scare

The Palmer Raids

The palmer raids were abusive law-enforcement raids directed towards radicals and anarchists in 1919 and 1920. These raids sparked outrage among the public and began a debate about constitutional rights. Many Americans feared for their life which caused the whole country to become scared. In 1919, Americans began to fight back by sending a series of bombs to government and law enforcement officials. 36 bombs were found in mails. This reached headlines and set off a Red Scare wave in the country. In response to these bombs the FBI created a special investigation and began the Palmer Raids.

Raids across the country continued for the next seven months with police pulling suspects out of their homes often without warrants. In 11 cities 1,000 people were arrested and 75% of these arrests were released. More raids followed on January 2, 1920. Raids were conducted in 33 cities resulting in the arrests of 3,000 people and over 800 of the arrested suspects were wrongly convicted.

JAIL CELL DOOR
with
JAILBAY EXPRESS

Sacco and vanzetti case

The Sacco & Vanzetti Case

The Sacco and Vanzetti case was about two Italian immigrant anarchists who were blamed for robbing and killing a paymaster and a guard at a shoe factory in South Braintree, Massachusetts. Sacco and Vanzetti were known for their anarchist ideas and also supporting workers rights. During their trial people felt like they were being treated unfairly and thought and felt they were mostly being punished for their beliefs and not their crimes and real evidence, because of this tons of people went and protested for them it was about 20,000 people gathered on the Boston Common before Sacco's and Vanzetti's execution people around the world also protested about this matter even a poet got involved Edna St. Vincent Millay and others were arrested for speaking up about the problem after world wide protests, and problems being created over their case 7 years later Sacco & Vanzetti were executed in a electric chair on Aug 23rd, 1927. At Charlestown state prison.

On November 7, 2008 a man by the name Howard Zinn offered a lecture on "The meaning of Sacco and Vanzetti at the Dante Alighieri Society Italian Cultural center in Cambridge, Massachusetts and nearly 250 people attended this event.

Ku Klux Klan

KKK Member

Black People

Ku Klux Klan

The Ku Klux Klan known as (KKK) were a big group of terrorist that wanted people to fear them to gain respect out of their fear so their Klan was about racism ,and threats they believed racist ideas and they didn't think that African Americans mostly coloured people deserved any rights and that some races were better than others they tried to not let any black people vote or respected their rights they thought black people should be slaves for the rest of their life slavery should not end this clan started after War like around 1865 they wore white robes and always had a mask covering their faces to hide their identity.

The groups still somewhat exist now but they're just not as big and powerful how they used to be the groups just started because of white people from Tennessee who were upset because of the loss in the civil war and that slavery had finally ended they wanted African Americans to not have rights they wanted to remain with the same control over black people